IV. SUMMARY OF PROJECT DESCRIPTION (COMPLETE IN SPA	and the second sec	"They're Still Here"
Children's Museum possesses a re	epresentative collection of arts	made by Native Americans from the Northeast (A) k	out few examples of these crafts	created by contemporary people. To update this collec	tion and demonstrate the continu	um that exists, TCM proposes the purchase and full do	cumentation of folk arts by livin	g Native American artists from the Northeast, especia	ally New England. These contem	porary materials will become part of the Museum's perm	anent collection and be incorpor	rated into a Northeast/Native American study/storage ce	nter now being prepared. This pr	oposal is a continuation of two major Museum directio	ns: making its non-Indian audie	nce aware of the continued existence of Native Ame	rican cultures via Native Americ	an collaboration (B), and a humanistic documentation of	f collections that value the artis	t/person as well as the art created. Joan Lester, Asso	ciate Curator, will coordinate th	is project, alded by Native American consultants and a	artists, and a media specialist.	Contemporary works that are counterparts of those alre	ady in collections (C) will be pu	urchased; each artist will be interviewed on sound tape	and have his craft process and	other examples of his work photographed. Community pe	ople have indicated support (D) .	If funded, community people will have an opportunity to	view their heritage as it contin	ues today; non-Indian educators and Museum visitors wi	Il receive non-stereotypic infor	mation via access to study/storage and exhibition of th	ese purchases and documents; t	ne Museum will lest out a model for responsible, respo	nsive curatorial work。 12,000 Native A	mericans &
